HOME ON TIFFANY HILL

It's impossible to see and do everything in one day, so overnight accommodations are essential. One of the best places to set up home base is Bed & Breakfast on Tiffany Hill in the rolling countryside of Mills River. The B&B, owned and operated by Selena Einwechter since it opened 10 years ago, became a Select Registry property in 2011. Tiffany Hill was the first B&B to become part of the Southern Living Hotel Collection, and in April 2018 Southern Living named it the South's Best Inn, based on an online reader survey.

"At Tiffany Hill," Selena says, "we celebrate something every day."

Breakfast at Tiffany Hill is a party unto itself. The three-course meals, served at a table that is set to perfection, always end with dessert. However, it's hardly a formal affair. Some guests come to the table in their pajamas, and Selena is happy to help them plan their daily itinerary.

Because she has thought of everything to satisfy her guests' every whim, some people may be reluctant to leave the property at all. And Selena doesn't indulge their desires in typical fashion. Why take a formal tour of the beautiful 6-acre grounds, for instance, when you can explore them on a scavenger hunt? Where else would you get a massage other than the human birdhouse? Feeling a little chilly at the Thursdays on the Porch music series? A basket full of blankets — or a soothing glass of wine — will warm you right up.

When it's time to check out (sadly, that day will come), the fond farewell will put your grandparents' goodbyes to shame. Spoiler alert: Selena helps guests bring in their luggage, but she doesn't help them take it out. In fact, she asks that travelers don't even let her see them take their suitcases to their cars. That's how much she hates to see her guests leave. As for the rest of the sendoff, well, you'll just have to find out for yourself. TR
